The Vicar Writes

Easter Seven is also the Sunday after the Ascension of the Lord where the Lord floated upward in the presence of the disciples and thus returned to his divine home. The Lord's abode is eternal and is not like a material place that is confined by time and space. The Lord's heaven is certainly a place but exists in omnipresence and is within all hearts (the kingdom of God is within you). All this is beyond the mind to understand but is not beyond the heart. The Lord is unlimited and has inconceivable powers, when the heart is purified by a deep loving connection with the Lord, things inconceivable to the mind become intuitively understood in the soul.

Today the Lord prays for all disciples for all time that they may be one with him as he and the Father are one. Jesus prays that we may live in him and he in us. This is also beyond the mind to understand but is easy if we accept the Lord is Spirit and not restricted in the same way matter is. The Lord's risen form through which we relate with him is not material but present everywhere, in our hearts and in all things.

The ascension reveals to us that Christ rose above all heavens, in other words he filled all things. We may relate to him in the form of Jesus or feel the presence of his Spirit in our hearts and lives, or we may do both. God is simply not limited by anything our minds might have difficulty in conceiving.

As we walk closely with the Lord and keep him in our hearts we become cleansed of material misgivings and misconceptions. Our heart expands with divine power to be able to accept things beyond the view of mind and senses. No computer or scientific instrument can help us to understand the Lord, only a sincere and loving heart, a heart that is open to the guidance of the divine.

Today as we contemplate the mysteries of the Lord let's heed his call to take a step out in faith and strive to surrender that we might enter more deeply into the Lord's mysteries. Nothing is impossible. The Lord is always with us, it is up to us to be aware of the Lord's presence in our lives and accept that God accepts and loves us. We are a part of God and so is everything and everyone. May we strive to be God conscious and grow in love for God that we may love one another. It is through surrender to love and devotion for God that we may become one with Christ who is one with God.
